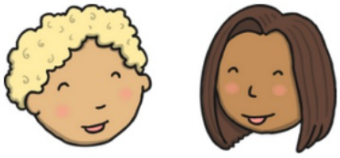
Last week, you looked at Ancient Rome.
What did you find out?
I found out that…



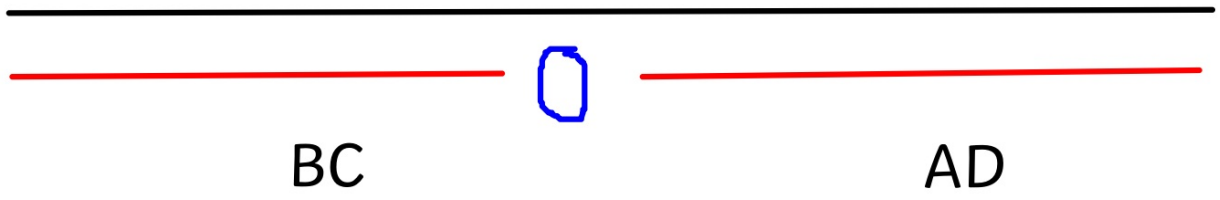
What does a timeline look like?
What do BC and AD mean?

A timeline has...
I think BC means...
I think AD means...

AD is sometimes called AC.

BC means Before Christ, Before 0.

AD means anno Domini, which means 'in the year of the Lord'.



It is assumed Christ was born at 0, so anything before is 'BC' and anything after is 'AD'.

Romans

First, let's see where everybody was!

In 55BC, Julius Caeser, a general for the Romans army, came across the English channel, bringing 10,000 soldiers with him.
He wanted to make Britain part of the Roman Empire.
However, the Celts, who lived in Britain, fought the Romans off and they had to go back to France.

The next year, 54BC, Julius Caeser came back, bringing 25,000 soldiers and 2000 calvarymen!
This time they fought the Celts up to the River Thames
The Celts offered to pay tributes to the Romans in return for leaving them in peace. Julius Caeser agreed- he didn't want a long war for such a small country.
The Romans and the Celts opened up trading links across the channel.

Nearly 100 years later, in 43 AD, Emporer Claudius decided to make Britain part of the Roman Empire again. He sent around 40,000 men to fight in Britain.

Lots of Celtic tribes realised that this army was far too strong for them to beat. They made deals to keep the peace, agreeing to pay taxes and obey Roman laws in return for keeping their kingdoms.

It wasn't just England that was invaded by the Romans over the years. They built a huge empire.

In 237BC, who controlled most of the land in Europe?
